A bus load of weary, but distinguished guests will arrive in the twin cities tonight, (Thursday) after having travelled over land and sea to learn and to love life in these United States.

The group will be among the first arrivals, of the more than 100 Latin-American guests expected to visit in the homes of Fultonians for more than two weeks and to attend the Fourth annual International Banana Festival.

There will be "how-do-you-do" and "Saludos" exchanges among the hundreds of people who will gather at the band-stand on Lake Street to welcome the Amigos from the banana-producing countries of Central and Latin-American countries. While this is the second year that the Banana Festival has undertaken the highly successful people-to-people program of personal diplomacy, there will be new people to know, new people to love... mostly because the Amigos that were here last year returned to their homes and spread the word of American friendships made and understandings enjoyed.

Returning to Fulton for her second visit, and to whom much credit is given for the fine American image in South America, is Mrs. Florence Ballesteros who will be accompanied by her young and beautiful daughter, Christina. Mrs. Ballesteros accompanied an older daughter Patricia (Miss Ecuador of 1966) to the Festival last year. The Ballesteros family is prominent and influential in Ecuador; Dr. Ballesteros is chief of staff of the largest hospital in Quito.

Mrs. Ballesteros personally supervised and organized the mission to the Banana Festival. The students were selected from a long list of applicants. Primary requirement for selection was for individual talent in the fields of art, music and Latin-American folklore.

Friday the students will enjoy a day of rest and acquaintanceship with their newly adopted Fulton families. Saturday they will journey to Paducah to be the luncheon guests of the Paducah Sun-Democrat and Paducah Mayor Tom Wilson. Later in the day they will go to Kentucky Dam Village where they will present a "command performance" at the Southern Governors' Conference.

There the group will be joined by Vicki Lynn Hurd the International Banana Festival princess, making her first Kentucky appearance after her triumphant success in Atlantic City where she was judged second runner-up in the Miss America contest, the most coveted title bestowed on an American miss.

Mandel Brown, band director in the Fulton City Schools is coordinator for the Amigo program this year. Mr. Brown is enviably qualified to spear-head the program since he visited in Ecuador this summer. He has been assisted by an equally capable group of local citizens.

The schedule for the Amigos is as follows:

Jo's Notebook
The vast and significant program to create friendship, togetherness and understanding with our friends to the south across the waters, is contagious here at home. Never in all the years that I have worked with community projects have I seen so many, give so much, for so worthy a cause.

This is an interesting story for the home-folks. Jim Stewart, a gent who calls Kentucky home, but who is now with the American Broadcasting Corporation in Chicago is coming down to "cover" the Festival for that national TV network. Jim said he formerly lived in Dukedom with the Willie Parkers, maybe it was on the Willie Parker farm, (I didn't quite keep attentive, I got so excited about his coming). Jim married an Owensboro girl, the former Rose Marie Taylor, who will accompany him on his trip to the Festival. Jim's letter says that he's always been so proud of what we have done with the Banana Festival, that he's coming down to see for himself. Now isn't that nice for all concerned?

Then there's the story of the boys at the Fulton Electric System, who are always most accommodating, but at Festival time, like a lot of others, they get carried away with the program. If all added, end on end, the distance they covered up and down utility poles to hang those banana hands, they'd be sitting on Pike's Peak today. This is just one example of the behind-the-scenes work that is being done that I hope to acknowledge publicly as the time goes on and my poor limited time gets more plentiful.

The Memphis zone of the Oldsmobile division of General Motors called Wednesday to say that they were going to furnish at least three brand new Oldsmobiles, maybe more, for Miss Debbie Bryant, Miss America of 1966; Banana Festival Princess Vicki Hurd and Janie Oimstead, Miss Kentucky of 1966, all of whom will appear at the Princess Pageant on Friday night. You saw all these lovely gals on nation-wide TV last week... at the Festival you'll see them in all their lovely persons.

Gaylon Varden of Varden Motor Company will furnish four 1967 Fords to squire around our VIP's on Friday, September 30. The new

Festival Headquarters Needs Floats To Float

Any business, organization or group that is interested in having a float in the Banana Festival Parade, October 1, should contact Festival headquarters, 472-2975, as soon as possible.

The floats may be created by the participants or the services of a professional builder may be used. By calling the festival office a member of the float committee will discuss arrangements and suggest a professional float builder if required.

A Festival Prize Corvair Monza '66 To Be Given Away

A 1966 Corvair Monza will be given away as a part of the Fourth International Banana Festival activities, to some person holding the winning ticket.

Tickets may be obtained from participating merchants in a 50 mile radius. No purchase is required and the tickets, like the car are free. The holder of the winning ticket must be present to win when at the drawing at 2:30 p. m., October 1, at Cabana City.

Ticket stubs should be deposited in the drum at Cabana City which opens on September 25.

"We Like Bananas"

It's Time To Catch The Banana Festival Spirit

Parking space around Banana Festival Headquarters is scarce, as more and more people are getting into the swing of festival activity. The spirit is catching as the time draws closer, for the Fourth International Banana Festival, officially beginning September 28, is really in its initial stages with the arrival of Ecuadorean students who will entertain for the Southern Governors' Conference this week-end.

"Local people can help in many ways to make these first visitors feel at home by getting the festival spirit early," say the workers at headquarters. Some of these ways are outlined below in the hope that they will be supplemented by individual ingenuity.

BANANA BAGS are on sale for $1.00 at Festival Headquarters for a practical item that makes one feel the spirit of the festival for sure and they make excellent hospitality gifts for visitors.

RESTAURANTS are asked to start serving at least one recipe every day that contains bananas such as banana ice cream, cake, pudding, pie, or bread. Bananas in salads, or jello, are also delicious.

"I'M ONE OF THE BUNCH" badges are on sale for 35c at headquarters and to be without one might mean a penalty during festival week, so buy one, and wear it proudly.

FULTON ELECTRIC is already in the process of installing decorations for merchants.

THE CITY MAINTENANCE DEPARTMENTS of Fulton and South Fulton are continuing to decorate the streets to create a festive air.

MERCHANTS should be preparing special store windows in honor of the occasion.

RESIDENCES are urged to participate in the decorating, too, and to display the American Flag as well as Banana Festival Flags wherever possible.

CHURCHES are requested to arrange programs and sermon topics in keeping with the festival theme of brotherhood and diplomacy.

Gary And The Playboys To Headline Dignitaries Coming To Banana Festival

Gary Lewis, son of the famous movie and TV star Jerry Lewis, and a star in his own right, will headline the program of nationally famous dignitaries who will appear at the Fourth Annual International Banana Festival. Gary and the Playboys, top-most of America's recording stars will appear at Cabana City Auditorium on Saturday afternoon, October 1 at 2:45 p. m. The troupe will come to the Festival from the Mid-South Fair in Memphis. A press party, a "jam-session with radio and TV disc jockeys and other public relations activities will be part of the famous star's program in the twin cities.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, will handle all arrangements connected with Gary's appearance here. The Jaycees will also handle arrangements for the giant Banan-a-rama talent show, the Latin-American Music Fiesta, the International relations program and all teen dances during the Festival.

In August of 1964, an unknown musical group auditioned at Disneyland for the teenage dances the famous park features during the summer vacation period. The group consisted of the lead singer on drums and four other youths playing accordion and three guitars and they called themselves Gary Lewis and The Playboys. It was the very first audition the boys had ever given, but the entertainment director of the park liked what he saw and heard, and hired them on the spot - much to their surprise. The new group was enthusiastically accepted by the audiences from the very first night and as the word spread it was not long before they were playing to a packed house every night, with the result that they spent the entire summer playing at the park. It was not until the season ended that the surprised park officials learned that they had signed the son of famous entertainer, Jerry Lewis.

In spite of the fact that he grew up in Hollywood, the son of a movie star, Gary Lewis was raised unspoiled in a closely-knit family group, purposely kept that way by his Dad and his mother Patti. He spent his school years on the West Coast and graduated from Black Fox Military Academy. Gary also attended Los Angeles City College, and later the Pasadena Playhouse where he majored in drama. Gary received his first set of drums as a present from his father on his fourteenth birthday, but at that time took just a passing interest in them. Last year, just like most 19 year olds, he became interested in the popular music of the day and began to practice the drums in earnest after classes at the Pasadena Playhouse. He was soon joined by friends from the school and the neighborhood and out of their practice sessions a group was formed. Their first "dates" were playing for private parties and they proved so popular that they were "booked" every weekend and during school vacations. By summer Gary's confidence had risen to the point where he decided that the group was ready to try out for the audition at Disneyland, which resulted in their first professional engagement.

While they were at the park, news of their success traveled through West Coast music circles

It's Fiesta Time In Fulton; It's Time For Smiles, Hospitality And A Hearty Handclasp

"It's an old southern custom, when you're walking down the street, to always say good morning to whom ever you may meet."

The song is passe but the spirit lingers on, especially in Kentucky.

The old southern custom of "glad to meet you" and "how do you do" is definitely in vogue for the next few weeks especially when it is coupled with, "buenos dias" or "como esta usted".

The Banana Festival is well under way and it is the privilege and the duty of every citizen of the area to realize that, though the International Banana Festival involves a number of countries in this hemisphere and that it is a part of Kentucky and Tennessee's annual celebrations, its success or failure lies solely upon the shoulders of each Fultonian.

Note "every citizen." It is a time when every citizen must be at top form, leave worries on the door step and cross over to "the sunny side of the street."

If even one person fails in accepting his role as an emissary of good will, he will have failed also as a worthwhile citizen of his community, and by failing his community he fails himself.

Visitors to the area at any time of year, be they celebrities or not, may expect a friendly welcome from those appointed to meet them, but even more they appreciate a friendly gesture from the housewife on her way to market, the husband on his way to work or the teenager busy with his activities. The memory of the simple gesture, if it is nothing more than a smile, will remain with them when they return to their homes.

Beatitudes Of A Leader In Public Life Or Home

BLESSED is the leader who has not sought the highest places, who has been drafted into service because of his ability and willingness to serve.

BLESSED is the leader who knows where he is going, why he is going, and how to get there.

BLESSED is the leader who knows no discouragement, who presents no alibi.

BLESSED is the leader who knows how to lead without being dictatorial; true leaders are humble.

BLESSED is the leader who seeks the best for those he serves.

BLESSED is the leader who leads for the good of the most concerned, and not for the personal gratification of his own ideas.

BLESSED is the leader who marches with the group and interprets correctly the signs on the pathway that lead to success.

BLESSED is the leader who has his head in the clouds, but his feet on the ground.

BLESSED is the leader who considers leadership an opportunity for service.

SMILES OR CURSES?

There's a man named Henry Patrick.

Some folks say he's psychiatric

Just because he meets disaster with a grin.

Says, when he encounters sorrow,

"There's another day tomorrow,

Never let your troubles penetrate your skin."

Henry grinned like it was funny

When he lost a lot of money.

Said, "I should have watched more carefully, I guess.

But nothing can be done about it;

Maybe I can do without it.

I suppose I'll have to get along with less."

When, then, is the greater folly,

To be petulant or jolly?

To take hardship with a curse or with a smile?

Maybe Henry's way is better,

Not to be misfortune's debtor;

Take your grief and give the job another trial.

"Leshanah tovah tekatevu vete-hatemv," means "May you be inscribed and sealed (in the Book of Life) for a good year."

It is Rosh Hashanah, the New Year, that ushers in the most solemn period of the Jewish year. The ten days of self-examination and repentance will reach their fulfillment in Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

These ten days of penitence, that begin today, are the "High Holy Days," or "Days of Awe," and they differ from other Jewish festivals in that, though deeply traditional, they are neither historical nor agricultural, but concern each Jew as an individual rather than as a member of the group.

Rosh Hashanah falls either in September or October, for its time is based on the Jewish calendar determined by the movements of the sun and the moon in relation to each other. This is called a lunisolar calendar.

The months of the Jewish year have such lovely names they bear repeating for those who are not familiar with them. They are Tishri, Heshvan, Kislev, Tebet, Shebat, Adar, Adar Bet or Adar Sheni (which occurs only in Leap Year), Nisan, Iyar, Sivan, Tam-muz, Ab and Elul.

The observance of all Jewish holidays begin at sunset of the previous day. On the Eve of Rosh Hashanah in the homes, after the recital of the kiddush, or sanctification prayer, and the lighting of the festive candles, the head of the household dips food in honey and says, "May it be God's will to grant us a good and sweet year."

Much can be learned when we take the time to look past the veneer of a belief and see what is underneath. We do not have to embrace that belief, but we can establish an empathy towards it.

For years to come all of us of various beliefs will have difficulty understanding one another, particularly as the communication media and transportation facilities bring us closer together. Bless this difficulty!

For if we attempt to understand one another and confront difficulty, we are at least making an effort to rise above an apathetic attitude.

The Hebrew religion has been handed down from generation to generation. Its contribution to the culture of nations all over the world cannot be ignored.

It is fitting then that other beliefs should take note of this the Jewish New Year, Rosh Hashanah which means "head of the year," as it is observed at the beginning of Tishri, the first month of the Jewish year.

It celebrates the anniversary of the creation of the world which, according to tradition, occurred in the year 3761 B. C. It is also considered the Day of Judgment, when all mankind is judged by the Creator, and the fate of each person for the coming year is written in the Book of Life.

As a part of the festivities the shofar is blown during the morning service in the Synagogue. The shofar is a sort of trumpet made of a ram's horn and from sixty to a hundred sounds, arranged in various combinations, are blown, the exact number varying with different traditions.

In ancient days the shofar was sounded to announce the days on which the new moon and the festivals would fall and every fiftieth year to proclaim the Jubilee or to give tidings of victory. In the words of Fania Kruger:

The Shofar, symbol of the new year, blows;

The tone resounds and faithful mankind knows

It is the call of peace that's yet to be.

A long drawn note of all humanity.

DR. SERVER RETIRES

A familiar face is missing from the University of Kentucky scene this fall. It is that of Dr. Alberta W. Server, who retired during the summer after 45 years as professor of Spanish. Although she's no longer in the classroom, the veteran UK teacher has a busy schedule ahead. She's now planning a trip to Spain, where she will investigate a stack of 500-year-old manuscripts which she hopes will cast new light upon the Spanish conquest of the Moors. After that will come a round-the-world voyage and the writing of at least two books.

Literature relating to the studies will be available during the day in the Book Room.

Each Methodist Church and Woman's Society in the Paris District is urged to have representatives attend this important conference.

The Parson Speaks

"NO HIDE-AND-SEEK WITH GOD"

Hide-and-seek is I suppose one of the oldest of games played. In the very beginning after God had made every thing and had given its keeping to man, Adam, who came from the hands of GOD, started playing games first he toyed with the commandment of obedience. Adam knowing he had lost that game started another hiding from GOD.

In the third recorded conversation we have of God and man, we hear the voice of the Lord, "Adam where art thou?" Gen. 3:9. In the cool of the evening of that day so far as Adam and Eve were concerned was a total loss. The God of creation called him and he knew he must come face to face with the author of life with whom he had had to reckon. Adam was naked, ashamed, afraid, and in hiding.

This scene has taken place every day since this far gone day of man's beginning. My Christian friends, we must reckon with God every day about our waste and neglect and disobedience, and many like Adam go into hiding, behind a lot of shallow excuses. Subconsciously we are ashamed naked, we have no inner peace, we are afraid to reckon with God about our lives.

Adam heard the voice of the Lord God, What he heard was the voice of conscience and moral urge; the voice of truth set over against falsity and make-believe; the voice of stability against capriciousness. Is God getting through to us, or are the lines of communication down? If He isn't getting through to us in our sorrows, our perplexities and our guilt, then where are we to be beyond the earshot of His counsel and love?

Are we afraid? Adam said he was afraid because he was naked. Then God answered, "Who told you you were naked?" Are we afraid to reckon with God because our lives are barren? Who told us we were naked? It is the personal heart and mind separated from God. . . . Sooner or later our barren lives come up before us.

God called, "Adam where are you?" Adam answered, "I am hid." Sounds almost childish, doesn't it. Let us not be amused at Adam we all do the same thing. If God were to call us now it is doubtful that we would about the work we were created for, all we can answer is we are in hiding.

God knew all the time where Adam was, but wanted to answer for himself just as you and I must answer. God always knows where we are and as sure as the day follows the night we must have a reckoning with Him.

Where are you and what are you doing?

School Zone Noted

Burnett Shared Ecuador Slides With Beelerton

Ecuador has high priority on the news market of the Fulton area and it was fitting that W. P. Burnett would share the experience of his trip to that country with the parents, teachers and students of the Beelerton School last Thursday night.

David Dean was elected president of the group by acclamation and received a hearty hand of applause as he stepped to the front of the auditorium to preside at the meeting.

Routine business was discussed including the proposed black topping of the basketball court and the necessity of finishing the work on some recently acquired swings for the play ground.

A Banana Festival Committee was appointed to be in charge of the food booth that the Beelerton group will sponsor on Lake Street in Fulton. Thomas Lynch, Clyde Batts, Clarence Douglas and James Tuck were named to this committee. Anyone who may help with the booth is urged to contact one of these gentlemen or one of the teachers at Beelerton School. All help is needed and will be appreciated.

A large crowd attended the meeting and enjoyed the slides that Burnette presented. Refreshments of coffee, punch and home made cookies were served in the cafeteria after the meeting. The next meeting will be held the second Thursday in October.

The invocation at the opening session of the Southern Governors' Conference, set for 9 a. m. on Monday, September 19, will be given by Dr. James S. Curry, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Hopkinsville.

SPOTLIGHT on Health

Hay Fever Or Asthma?

The ability to treat hay fever and asthma is important to nonmedical people, especially family members, responsible for the day-to-day care of those suffering from these diseases.

Usually, the responsible person is the wife or mother. She must guard against sneezes and wheeze-causing allergens, and see that the patient is well-nourished and rested.

Hay fever, an inflammation of the tissues lining the nose, and often the eyes and throat, is characterized by red, runny eyes, and nose, and often itchy skin. And, sneezing!

Mothers should also be alert to signs of asthma, which is more common among children than adults. Asthma's wheezing is caused by lung airways closed with sticky plugs of mucus. Attacks are signalled by a tight feeling in the chest, difficult breathing, accompanied by wheezing and inability to exhale fully.

The similarities between asthma and hay fever are greater than many realize. There is evidence from current research at the University of Wisconsin that hay fever and asthma may really be the same disease—at opposite ends of the spectrum.

Both are often allergic reactions. The person with hay fever is generally sensitive to pollen of plants. Asthmatics may be sensitive to proteins in foods, animal danders, house dust, and other allergens.

Asthma may also result from infections, emotional upsets, and other "intrinsic" causes. Treatment is aimed at relieving the symptom, but, as affected tissues differ, so do treatments. A doctor should supervise all therapy.

Specific asthma therapy now often prescribed by physicians is an aerosol mist which carries bronchial-relaxing drugs into the lungs, opening airways and releasing plugs of mucus. A bronchodilating drug physicians have found effective is isoproterenol in an oral aerosol inhalator called Isuprel.

Decongestants and antihistamines which "dry up" and shrink swollen, weeping tissues are standard treatment for hay fever. "Treatment" by prevention—immunization against specific protein allergens, especially ragweed pollen—is increasing. So is avoidance of allergens by air washing equipment in bedrooms, or by moving to a pollen-free environment.

Asthma may also be prevented by air washing or moving to a suitable climate.

In severe asthma and hay fever, doctors may prescribe adrenal steroid hormones, which may have to be continued indefinitely. Many physicians prefer to avoid steroid dependency if possible.

In Memory Of Miss Maudie Pepper A South Fulton School Teacher

A beloved South Fulton Elementary School teacher, Miss Maudie Pepper passed away last week. At 35 she had already given 37 years of her life to the teaching profession and in those years she collected the friendship of all her fellow teachers, her students and their families. These hearts are heavy as they mourn the untimely passing of their beloved friend and teacher.

Born the daughter of A. B. Pepper and Mattie Allen Hardin Pepper in Obion County, February 8, 1911, Miss Pepper was educated in the Obion County Schools and attended Bethel College in McKenzie. She began teaching when she was 18 years old and continually gave of herself to others, not only as a teacher but through her work as a member of the Jackson, Tennessee Cumberland Presbyterian Church and as a supervisor of Girl Scout camps in Texas, Arkansas and Kentucky.

Funeral services were held at the White-Ransom Funeral Home of Union City last Thursday at 2:00 p. m. with the Rev. J. D. Kidwell of the First Christian Church officiating and interment was in the Obion County Memorial Gardens.

Miss Pepper is survived by her mother; a brother, Charles Pepper, and four sisters, Mrs. Louis Allen, Mrs. C. C. Bryan, Mrs. Earl Garrett, and Miss Jeanette Pepper all of Union City.

As a special tribute to this remarkable woman who accomplished so much in such a short life the South Fulton Schools were dismissed so that faculty members and students could attend the services.

Death lies on her, like an untimely frost

Internal Revenue Giving Help To Soldier's Wives

Wives of servicemen in Viet Nam will not have tax refunds delayed because of a missing signature on joint returns the Internal Revenue Service said today.

Contrary to implications in recent press reports of difficulty encountered by the wife of an American POW in Viet Nam, it is IRS policy and practice to give special consideration to military personnel and their families.

On a Federal income tax return, the wife of an overseas serviceman has only to indicate in the space provided for her husband's signature that he is in fact in the military service in Viet Nam and the return will be processed. Refunds due on these returns will be expedited.

Servicemen in Viet Nam have an automatic extension of time for filing Federal income tax returns. The due date for returns is postponed for the period of service in Viet Nam plus 180 days. No penalty or interest is charged on returns filed in the 180 day period.

The Revenue Service frequently cannot determine from its records that a taxpayer is serving in Viet Nam. If the wife of a Viet Nam veteran receives a bill, notice, or inquiry from IRS, she has only to contact the nearest IRS office to be afforded every possible consideration and assistance in tax matters.

Festival Needs Your Help

Does your mom buy much stuff from stores that don't advertise?

She can't afford to. The best bargains are always advertised in every business, and around Fulton, that means they're in the SHOPPER. My mom reads the Fulton SHOPPER every week for Fulton's "best buys". So does my dad.

The Fulton Shopper goes swingin' up and down the streets of Fulton and Clinton . . . up and down the highways and byways of EVERY SINGLE MAIL ROUTE IN THE ENTIRE FULTON TRADE AREA every week of the year, singing a song of "best" buys in merchandise and services.

The Shopper is Fulton's SWINGIN' paper . . . live, newsy, well-printed and delivered into the mailbox each week, right on schedule. Six-thousand, two hundred mailboxes, to be exact, and that means it reaches twenty-five thousand pairs of eyes.

Never before in the history of Fulton has there been a publication with such wide weekly coverage available for advertisers.

Do Shopper advertisers like it? Ask any of them and they'll tell you that ads in the Shopper keep business swingin' like never before. It is selling more merchandise because it is reaching more people!

The FULTON SHOPPER is published each week by THE NEWS

From Fashions To Lunch Boxes

by Jackie Caraway

The fashion industry has not ignored the men and women of tomorrow. They are continuously searching for ways to please the newest infant, as well as the pre-teen child.

The Tiny Toggery, in step with the times, makes a concentrated effort to advance the fashion industry in this direction and it is fascinating to see the finest of fashions gathered under one roof for the particular convenience of the small fry and their parents. Not to mention doting grand-mothers, aunts and uncles.

On August 23, Vivian Jones and Mabel Woodside re-opened the Tiny Toggery on East Main Street in Fulton, just east of the Fulton Theatre.

Beulah Hancock is the considerate clerk who guides parents and their youngsters through the realms of Dapper Do and Bryan baby things into Gibbs underwear and the Isaacson Carrico line, focusing special attention on the Ruth Original, Miss Q and Peaches and Cream dresses for toddlers through 14. Boys are happy little gentlemen, too, when they are outfitted in Mann Ranch trousers in slims or regular through size 12 or Kaynee and Texson shirts through size 14, and don't forget to peep at the Don Moore knit wear.

All these items are the latest examples of style and color available, with special attention to reinforced knees and washing and wearing characteristics.

Shower and birthday gift hunters won't have to go further than the Tiny Toggery to nab an appropriate gift for the occasion. The love-liest of jewelry is available for children from $1.00 on up. Then there is a selection of very different toys, as well as scarfs, hats and purses for the pre-teen youngster. Your present will be gift wrapped free of charge, too.

The marvelous thing about the Tiny Toggery is that there is more to come, for not all the merchandise has arrived, so keep on the look out and feel free to stop by and ask, "What's new Beulah and Vivian?"

Sunday morning a fellow churchgoer winked at me as though my slip were showing and as I pulled at my skirt Joyce Bryan came through the crowd to say it wasn't my slip she was winking about, she just wanted to get my attention to tell me she wasn't getting her Shopper. — It was after church so the minister didn't mind. Hope you have it now, Joyce!

If youngsters carry their lunch it is a good time to look over various lists of sandwiches, for sometimes we may miss a comparatively simple lunch idea just because we are in a rut.

Look over the sandwich side of the menu at the restaurant next time and see what ideas you may get from them. In the meantime, perhaps these suggestions will vary the lunch box a bit.

Snack foods for recess or lunch could include individual boxes of raisins. They come six boxes to a package at the grocery and youngsters love them and they are full of iron. Take advantage of several candy bars in a package and remember that small pieces of foil can be used to package your own homemade cookies or store-bought fig newtons and other cookies.

Individual bags of potato chips are nice and the individual packs of crackers and peanut butter. You might find it less expensive to take your peanut butter, spread it between crackers and wrap the pairs in foil yourself.

For sandwiches other than the ones you may have thought about are egg salad, ham salad, tuna fish salad (when the weather is cooler), liver cheese or brunsweiger salad, pimento cheese.

Liver cheese or brunsweiger can be blended with a fork and mixed with mustard, pickle relish or salad dressing and it makes a tasty spread.

Bologna can be chopped like ham and combined with your usual salad dressing and pickle relish to make a sandwich so similar to ham salad you won't know the difference.

For the child with the sweet tooth, jelly sandwiches are always good and then there are cream cheese sandwiches that are especially good on date nut bread for a change of pace.

Desserts are always best when they include home made things. A little cake batter can make a few cup cakes for the lunch box without cutting down too much on the family cake. A little extra pie crust and filling in the small aluminum trays makes a delicious lunch box treat.

Fruit, of course, is always popular with kids and can be used for a snack food or dessert. A small bunch of grapes, an apple, a banana, a peach or an orange are a healthful addition to the lunch bag.

Nothing is more appreciated than the time and consideration put into the preparation of the lunch box and nothing adds more to its memory than an occasional riddle cut from a magazine or a cute little poem or joke the youngster may share with his friends at noon-time.

South Fulton Commissioners Set Tax Rates

The South Fulton City Commission met in regular session Tuesday night. An ordinance setting the tax rate at $2.75 per $100.00 assessed valuation was passed upon the first reading. This is the same tax rate established last year.

The charging of churches and other tax exempt facilities for water services was discussed and the commission established a policy that churches would be charged for water utilities due to the fact that this is a customary procedure in other areas. Henry Dunn, city manager stated in an interview today.

The commission also discussed extending gas utility lines to the Reams Sub-Division off of the Martin Highway. The survey showed it was not economically feasible to spend the approximate $5000 necessary to extend the lines and no further action was taken.

Rex Ruddle was reappointed mayor to serve a 2 year term beginning October 1, and Harry Allison, recently elected commissioner was sworn in before assuming his duties.

Hire Teenagers After Checking Labor Standard

The Kentucky Labor News reminds employers that young people are able to fill many simple jobs. The Fair Labor Standards Act is liberal enough to permit teenagers to do part-time work.

A youth of 16 may be hired for many jobs that do not fall under the hazardous occupation clause such as a delivery job or power driven equipment.

When the youngster is attending school the law allows young people to work 3 hours a day on school days and 8 hours on Saturday for a total not to exceed 18 hours per week. The law does not allow minors under 16 to work before 7 a. m. or after 7 p. m.

When considering young people for employment it is important that the employer refer to the law to see that all the requirements are being considered.

There were two cows grazing in a Fulton meadow. "Moooo," said the first cow.

"Ba aa aa," said the second cow. Said the first cow, "What do you mean, Ba aa aa, you sound like a sheep?"

Said the second cow, "I'm learning to say banana."

Most everyone has learned that the word "banana" can have more than one connotation especially if the word "festival" is coupled with it.

Festival time is really at hand with the anticipated arrival tonight of the talented Ecuadorian students who will perform for the Southern Governors' Conference at Kentucky Lake this week-end.

Tennessee Builds Hiways As Link To Ky. Lake

The Tennessee Department of Highways plans to build a $4 million network of highways along the eastern shore of Kentucky Lake to link U.S. Highway 79 and 70 and carry traffic from the 3 federal highways to the edge of the recreation area.

The project will be unique in that it departs from the movement of traffic as the sole criterion for determining the feasibility of a road project and will help, not hinder, the development of tourist trade at the Kentucky end of the area.

The main object of the network of highways is to encourage the development and growth of tourist oriented businesses such as motels, restaurants, service stations and gift shops.

There are five schools in the Hickman County system with the closing of the Kane Elementary School. The Central Elementary School at Clinton has an increase of 88 students with a total of 557. The Hickman County High School has 386 students enrolled.

Columbus school has 118 students, Fulham 151, Beclerton has 109, compared with 93 last year. The increase in enrollment in Beclerton is attributed to the tuition increase by the Fulton City Schools for several students in the area who had been attending classes in Fulton.

With JIM PRYOR

QUALITY FORAGE REGULATES PROFITS

High quality forage is the most economical part of all rations. The lack of quality, however, keeps many farmers from getting the full benefit of this all important item. The feeding value of top quality roughage is much higher than that which is over-ripe or has cured too long. The higher the quality of any forage, the easier its digestibility, as well as supplying 75 to 80 of the nutrients cattle require.

All too often supplemental grain is fed to overcome the deficiencies of a low quality hay, pasture, or silage. In this case, grain becomes the major portion of the ration with roughage being the supplement rather than the reverse which should be normal.

Farmers should make every effort to get as many pounds of a marketable product as possible from forage crops, after which they should consider feeding whatever grain necessary to reach the animal's maximum potential production. The importance of quality hay and pasture is not lessened by the current interest in high grain rations for cattle. Roughage is the backbone of the livestock industry. If we have a weak forage program, likewise, our agribusiness is also weakened and the farmers production cost begins to rise. It is very easy to see the importance of having a high quality hay, pasture and silage.

In feeding any quality hay, it is best NOT to grind the forage. I think most all University experiment stations have at one time or another worked an experiment on hay grinding. Cattle and sheep can grind their hay much cheaper than the mill and will do well while accomplishing the feat. I know of millers here in our community who put off buying hay grinding equipment until forced to by livestock owners who just had to have the hay in the ration. Well, if you would put the cost of grinding into protein concentrate, the ration would make you more net profit in the end. If a poor quality hay is fed, the cow then has to digest it and this takes energy (more hay or even grain). If the hay were not ground, the chances are she would not even eat it. This is forced feeding and is proven unprofitable.

No one hay making system will work on every farm, but the plan that will yield the most nutrients should be adopted. In other words, sacrifice pounds for top quality. With new hay making equipment, it is possible to get the most out of the hay field. The Kentucky Farmstead Mechanization Exposition at Hopkinsville had on exhibit a machine that they claimed would make it possible to cure Sudan or other tough-to-handle supplemental pastures for hay.

Remember quality, not quantity, makes high profits!

Rabies Reported In Beelerion Community

Fulton County Agent John B. Watts has reported the first case of rabies in this area in many years. A calf killed on the S. J. Walker farm in the Beelerion community proved to have the disease last week.

Watts urges farmers to watch for suspicious symptoms of rabies as well as black-leg that has resulted in losses recently. Farmers are asked to keep their inoculation programs up to date.

Slip In Festival Banana Peels For More Festive Rose Gardens

The lowly banana peels have slipped into the garden picture, according to a feature in the Sunday Courier-Journal gardening section, so the twin cities of Fulton-South Fulton should be a mecca for all rose-growers of the nation during the forthcoming International Banana Festival, September 26-October 1, for where else in the world could one find so many banana peels?

For the gardeners of this locale, we re-print the following:

THE LOWLY BANANA PEEL now has outgrown its place as the butt of jokes, cartoonists' pens and lawsuits; it now has status in the garden.

During World War II banana peels were in big demand for "greasing" the skids of ships being launched; of course, then back again to the comedians, clowns and courtrooms.

The recent change came about when a New Orleans rose-grower reported good luck over a five-year period, using the peels as a fertilizer for her roses. She found the plants responded more to banana-peel feeding than to bonemeal and manure, although these helped, too.

She reported her finding to a fruit company that specializes in bananas. Interest arose, so the research staff was put to work.

The researchers reported that the skins are high in potash, and decay rapidly in soil because of high water content. The result: larger, fuller and more beautiful flowers.

Six to nine peels can be used safely at one time. They should be mashed into the soil, but need not be buried deep or cut up. They should be covered lightly with soil. Spring and fall are the best times to use them, but they can be used any time during the regular fertilizing season.

They're good for other plants, too. In addition to potash, they contain calcium, magnesium, phosphate, sulfur, sodium, silica and chlorides.

Farm Bureau Votes 6 To 1 For Revision

Farm Bureau members attending the Shelby County Fair voted by a 6 to 1 margin in favor of the proposed constitution to be on the November ballot.

Kentuckians for a Better Constitution released the results as reported by the Shelby County Farm Bureau in its monthly publication. At the same time the state-wide organization spearheading the campaign for approval announced that Friends of Kentucky Libraries also went on record in support of the revised document. The report was made by Mrs. Garnett Bale, president of the library group and followed a meeting of the association's executive board.

The Shelby County Farm Bureau in its report on its poll said: "Our Farm Bureau booth had a good number of fair goers interested in giving their opinion on the revision of the Kentucky constitution which will be on the ballot in November. Here are the results:

"What do you think of the proposed revision of the Kentucky constitution?"

"Farm Bureau members for, 100; against, 18; no opinion, 50."

"Non-Farm Bureau members for, 67; against, 39; no opinion, 22."

"No indication of membership status for, 16; against, 18; no opinion, 20."

Kentuckians for a Better Constitution also reported that 8,321 Kentuckians attending the state fair at Louisville signed a 200-yard long voting roll pledging to vote for the revised document at the November election. Signatures were obtained at a booth sponsored by the organization.

and came to the attention of Snuff Garrett, then a highly successful A & R producer for Liberty Records who had established an enviable record of hits by the label's roster of young artists. Snuff contacted Mrs. Lewis, who was by this time functioning as Gary's manager, and arranged to cut a demonstration record. Snuff and other Liberty executives were delighted with the results, signed Gary to a contract and began searching for the right material for the group to record.

In February of 1965, Gary Lewis and The Playboys cut their first commercial record "The Diamond Ring" and within two months it was the number one record in the country selling over a half million copies. Liberty quickly followed the hit single with an album of the same title and Gary's subsequent records "Count Me In" and "Save Your Heart For Me" followed the same patterns as his original hit. Sales of his records now total over two and a half million copies. With the success of the records, requests for television and personal appearances poured in and Gary and his group have been seen on most of the major network variety shows including two appearances on the Ed Sullivan Show and Hullabaloo plus guest starring on Shindig, Shvaree, Hollywood A Go Go and Sam Riddle Show. In-person appearances on the West Coast followed where Gary and the group developed an act that pleased audiences of all ages, and they recently returned from their first tour of England and Europe where they were greeted by screaming fans in every city they played.

At present Gary is playing to SRO audiences on one-nighter tours of this country, his movie "A Swingin' Summer" is being shown at theatres throughout the nation with the studio receiving an impressive amount of fan mail and his new recording of "Everybody Loves a Clown" is rapidly climbing the hit lists. With Patti Lewis, his mother, still keeping a close watch on his career and Snuff Garrett, who has since established his own independent production company, turning out his hit recordings, Gary's future is bright and assured. And even with his early and somewhat startling success, Gary still takes time to listen to the advice of his Dad who he says counseled him not as a performer, but as a father.

Tips and Tales From Reelfoot Lake

by Bill Hall

Reelfoot Lake is to be honored the last of October, in fact the 28th, 29th and 30th of October by a meeting of the Tennessee Outdoor Writers. The last time these fellows met at Reelfoot Lake was about three years ago and the response of publicity that these fellows gave the lake in general was tremendous. All of the major newspapers of Tennessee will be represented by their outdoor editor, or writer from Bristol Tennessee to Memphis Tennessee.

A program is being set up by the federal refuge manager, John Delima to show the writers the operation that the federal use in capturing or trapping ducks for the banding operation. The writers will be taken by bus on the Saturday morning to the upper end of Reelfoot on the refuge area and also other points of interest that have been developed will be shown. The primary interest of the meeting will be the duck situation of Reelfoot Lake, I'm sure many of you know that Reelfoot Lake is still one of the greatest duck hunting habitat on the Mississippi flyway, but did you know that more different species of ducks are found here in this little Northwest-corner of Tennessee than anywhere else on the entire Mississippi flyway. With the up and coming duck season on its way this publicity will and could bring more and new duck hunters into the area which in turn will enhance the economic situation for the motel operators.

There's always a story that sticks in your mind that you always feel was funnier than any other story you've heard. I don't know how many of you know Monroe Dean but Monroe is a sort of long lanky fellow with handle bar mustache and broad brim hat. Now Monroe is really a character of all characters, but a few years ago, Monroe came breathlessly into one of the stores here in Samburg, face white as a sheet, and said, "You know, I had the worst thing in the world to happen to me a little while ago." Well, of course everyone wanted to know what it was. Monroe continued with his story. Well, I was hunting squirrel up here on the ridge and was walking real quietly through the woods, trying to hear a squirrel bark. I came to this log and stepped over as easy as I could and after putting my foot down I thought I had stepped in some mud because of the softness of the step. Looking down, I had stepped squarely on a rattlesnake, one of the biggest I ever laid my eyes on.

"I took off running and must have run a long piece when I stopped beside a big beech tree to rest a minute. I was wringing wet with sweat and felt almost faint from the experience when I heard what I thought was a horse running through the woods." The fellows in the store where the story was being told were waiting anxiously to find out what happened next. Then Monroe said, instead of it being a horse, I found, it was my heart a beating."

See you next time with more tips and tales from Reelfoot Lake.

Two Proposed Waterway Projects Connect Cleveland With Mobile

The Board of Army Engineers for Rivers and Harbors has recommended a billion-dollar waterway linking Lake Erie with the Ohio River. If the project, along with a proposed Tennessee-Tombigbee rivers connection, is carried out, a 1745 mile link from Cleveland, Ohio to Mobile, Alabama would be opened resulting in a possible increase in the market for Kentucky coal.

The resolution pointed out that the Army Corps of Engineers has completed a 2 year economic study on the proposed connection of the Tennessee and Tombigbee Rivers and that the report is now in the chief of engineers' office for review.

The 253 mile slack water route would connect the Port of Mobile and the Eastern Gulf with the 10,000 mile inland waterway network that includes the Tennessee, Ohio, Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys. This would place the Tennessee and Cumberland River ports hundreds of miles closer to the gulf.

The Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway has often been referred to as "The Missing Link" in mid-America's inland waterway system.

Murray State University Fall Semester Begins September 16

Fall semester classes at Murray State University will open Friday (Sept. 16) following a week of counseling and registration.

Admissions director Wilson Gantt said he expects the enrollment to pass 6,000 mark for the first time as the institution begins its first regular term as a university.

Last fall Murray State had 5,728 students.

Freshman students arrived on campus Sunday afternoon (Sept. 11) and attended orientation and counseling sessions Sunday night and Monday. They are scheduled to register Tuesday (Sept. 13).

Upperclassmen will enroll Wednesday and Thursday (Sept. 14-15).

Gantt said several changes in registration procedures have been made to make the process faster and smoother.

Upperclassmen will be counseled by their advisors in the ballroom of Waterfield Student Union then go to Carr Health Building gymnasium where they will be enrolled and pay their fees.

Besides a large freshman class, the number of graduate students on campus is expected to increase this fall. Ten new programs leading to master of arts or science degrees are in the curriculum for the first time, having been approved by the Board of Regents after university status was assured.

An addition to the library, which will enable the university to accommodate a study body of 7,000, and a two-story addition to the education building are slated to be finished early this fall.

The luncheon meeting will feature an interview with UK football coach, Charlie Bradshaw and Ole Miss coach, Johnny Vaught to be broadcast by means of a telephone hook up and incorporating the use of a paging system that will enable the local members to ask questions.

All the U-Kats and prospective members are invited to attend this unusual program. Persons over 21 who have a sincere interest in the University of Kentucky athletic programs and the improvement of athletics at the primary and secondary school levels in Kentucky are urged to place their membership with this organization.

"Bananas Are G-o-o-d"

"We Like Bananas"

IF YOU COULD SEE this fellow all around town, chances are you wouldn't hear a word of any interesting program ever held in Fulton. He's Jaycee Bill Bennett, sounding out the enthusiasm of Jaycees Kenneth Stanley, (left, president) and Larry Ader, a fine and tireless worker. Bill found from his earphones that every Jaycee in town is "real gone" on this year's Festival program.

Banan-A-Rama Contest Time In The Festival City

Fords come out on Thursday, September 29, and we'll have them on Friday, Not bad, eh?

And when people walk into Festival office to buy patron's subscriptions at $10.00 each, when they're not even printed, that's the kind of financial support that makes us feel good way down inside. First Federal Savings and Loan Association and Fall and Fall Insurance Company, went even further. They brought in a check for $150.00, for fifteen tickets. That's what you call support. How nice it would be if we could be deluged on Friday with this kind of volunteer financial support. We could spend the balance of the time before the Festival, putting the finishing touches on the program, without having to sweat every minute wondering if we can afford even the smallest expenditure.

And Festival headquarters is something else. With people running in and out, volunteering help, running errands, planning programs, it just makes life worth living, that's for sure.

Entries are beginning to pour in for the annual Banan-A-Rama contest - the always popular talent event of the International Banana Festival, to be held at Cabana City (in the old Kitty League ball park) on Wednesday, September 28, at 7 p. m. Edward Hailey will again serve as chairman of this event, one of the highlights of the entertaining program planned for this year's Banana Festival.

There will be six groups of talent, including vocal solos, vocal groups, dance, novelty act, instrumental solo and instrumental group.

Two stages and two emcees will make the program move along rapidly.

One winner will be chosen from each group on Wednesday night. These six winners will compete for the grand championship on Thursday night at 8 p. m., September 29, at Cabana City in the Latin-American music fiesta.

Prizes of $100 will be awarded to all winners on Thursday night. An additional $100 will be given to the grand winner. It is planned to have Gary Lewis make the presentation to the winner.

All entries must be in by Tuesday, September 27, at 7 p. m. Local talent wishing to compete in the Banan-A-Rama are asked to pick up entry blanks from Ed Hailey, 203 Frankie Lane, South Fulton.

FESTIVAL MOOD—

EVERYONE is asked to send invitations to relatives and friends urging them to attend the Festival activities and have a home-coming celebration too.

CAR OWNERS are asked to decorate their cars and polish them up to shine a welcome to the many visitors.

LADIES might be thinking in terms of wearing apparel in Festival colors and the GENTLEMEN may be able to secure some banana colored ties.

"WHATEVER our festival fancy may be it is time to put our banana best foot forward," and that's the word from headquarters.

Permits Are Available To Hunt At Reelfoot

The annual squirrel hunts on Reelfoot and Lake Isom National Wildlife Refuge will be conducted on a split season basis this year, according to Refuge Manager John DeLime.

Free permits will be issued this Monday, Sept. 12, on a first come, first served basis. Hunters must have a permit in possession before taking to the field, Mr. DeLime said. Hunting will be permitted on both the Tennessee and Kentucky portions of Reelfoot Refuge. Holders of Tennessee licenses will be restricted to lands lying in Tennessee while Kentuckians must hunt in Kentucky.

The hunts will open at sunrise Sept. 19 and continue until sunrise Sept. 24. Areas will then be closed for eight days, re-opening at sunrise Oct. 3 and continuing until sunrise Oct. 8. The daily bag limit of squirrels is six. Dogs must not be used. Hunters may use either rifles (22 caliber) or shotguns.

Those who desire permits may visit the refuge office or write to P. O. Box 295, Samburg, Tenn. Hunters are asked not to mail licenses with their letter but to list the serial number of their hunting license.

For convenience of Kentucky hunters permits may be obtained at the residence of Clarence McCollum, which is located just south of Bondurant, Ky. Those persons who cannot appear in person may send licenses by friends and have their permits picked up by them. Maps and complete hunt regulations will be furnished at either permit issuance station.

Welfare Poverty for All

IN the news recently was the story of a rich suburban community where the average family income is about $14 thousand. Not one poor child can be found in the schools, but the community has nevertheless applied for $33,561.13 in federal anti-poverty funds to provide instruction for children who find difficulty in learning. The superintendent of the school system said, "Our judgment was that this money is available, all of it money which all of us as taxpayers contributed." The allocation of such poverty funds is based on the assumption that every community must have some families earning less than $2,000 a year. Even though this community has no families in that category or anything approaching it, it nevertheless expected to get the money.

This story illustrates the essential reason why the welfare state cannot be permanent, but will inevitably bankrupt itself. Millions of people do not need social security, medicare, subsidized housing and anti-poverty money of various kinds. But realizing that they have to pay the bills for the generous handouts all the way around, they usually convince themselves that they might as well share in the bounty. Welfare for the needy tends to become welfare for everybody, and when it does we are taxing ourselves to pay ourselves. To be sure, some are more heavily taxed than others, but this process of itself will finally reduce that class of citizens down to the general level. In the end we shall be endeavoring to lift ourselves by our boot straps, and there will be nothing but poverty to distribute. In the last analysis, the welfare state anti-poverty program must inevitably result in general poverty for all our citizens.

There might be one exception. The political bosses and their henchmen who have access to the public treasury will probably fare rather well.

In defense of state welfarism it will be said that we cannot let needy people suffer. That is certainly true, but they could and would be cared for by non-government organizations established for that purpose. Such organizations would administer relief only to those who were in need. Every effort would be made to restore such people to a self-supporting basis. Relief would be available for the worthy poor, but would not become general for everybody regardless of need, as we see happening before our eyes in the state welfarism which we have adopted. Government administered relief will destroy our self-government and our freedom and eventually lead us into the totalitarian state.

WEIGHT CONTROL: TAILOR THE PLAN

Are you overweight?
Are you dieting now?
Have you been successful in reaching the weight you desire but then regained your former overweight in a period of time?
If your answer is "yes" to questions like these, you are one of thousands of people who have experienced frustration with their weight problem.

The newest and most professional thinking suggests the only kind of weight control program that will be successful is a tailored plan of living and eating habits—tailored specifically for you.

Slow But Sure

There is no guarantee of quick results. Quite the contrary. Though a tailor made suit will immediately improve a man's appearance, a tailor made plan of weight control will take time to get results.

You didn't gain that weight in a hurry. At least most of us didn't. It came on gradually, perhaps over a period of years. The important point now is not so much what you will weigh five weeks from now as five years from now. What is called for is a re-training of our eating and exercise habits. Whatever our life is now, our eating cannot be as before. We need to adopt new patterns of eating, and expending energy that are compatible with our age and way of life. And I venture this will take some doing for each of us.

As a starting point, do you really know what you had to eat last week? Such information is imperative if you are to make any headway at all. It is amazing how most of us kid ourselves, or forget actually what we have eaten and how much. A careful record will form the basis for improvement. Even to the amateur, certain improvements will suggest themselves. Overindulgence in highly rich foods will be apparent.

Keep a List

So make a list for breakfast, lunch and dinner for a week—and don't forget to include between meal eating as well. Be sure to include alcohol and soft drinks. An inventory of this kind is your first step toward personalized weight control. List each food or drink in serving measurements such as teaspoons, tablespoons, cups, ounces, grams or whatever—in other words be as exact as you can.

Limit the Amount

Next, limit the portions of what you eat. Start out eating the same foods, but less of most, and maybe cutting out entirely any foods that obviously are in the rich dessert class, or overly fatty, such as fried foods. Broil your meats instead, for example.

There's more to this. Like determining for sure that you are getting the proper number of servings of foods from the four food groups. And which foods are highest in calories. We'll talk about this in a future column. Meantime, any of you who are seriously overweight—ten pounds or more—should see your doctor before starting any weight control program.

WHAT'S GOING ON

HERE

Another school year is underway in Kentucky, and the Department of Agriculture's Division of Commodity Distribution is again providing food for school lunchrooms throughout the State. Director Thomas Lewis reports that the over-all supply of USDA donated foods is expected to be comparable to previous years.

Lewis notes, however, that creamery butter and process cheese will not be available this year. This is due to the fact that the present production of these two commodities is moving through regular trade channels. The amount of money usually spent for these two items will be used to purchase fruits and vegetables or other foods. This arrangement will also allow school lunchrooms to buy margarine with the money available from not having to purchase fruits and vegetables.

Schools will receive two shipments of frozen turkeys this year. Other items will include raisins, pears, corn meal, flour, rolled wheat and shortening. These foods are available under Section 32 and

416. Dry milk, dry split peas and rice are also available upon request and may be picked up at the Blue Grass Ordnance Depot Warehouse.

I feel that the lunchroom program is one of the most worthwhile services the Department renders in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture enabling schools to provide well-balanced meals to students.
